According to the info I found, Alice was an Indian child. She and her sister were found and raised by the McFarland's and the Sexton's. I'm not sure why she chose Sexton over McFarland, yet the McFarland's are listed as adopted parents in the census records. Of course she is also listed as white in the census records. Another one of those things that make you stop and go "Huh!" :o) Maybe the Sextons took her in first and then the McFarlands adopted her.???

The 1880 census lists her as Emily A. Sexton, age 15, adopted, with the family of Miles McFarlen age 66 and wife Talitha age 52, in Carter Co., Ky.

I could not find her in 1870, and do not know who her birth parents are. (She should not be confused with Mary Alice Sexton born 11 Nov 1863 in Wythe Co., Va, dau of William Martin Sexton & Martha Jane Nelson, who was listed in the 1870 census of Carter Co. as Alice age 6. That Alice Sexton married William Larson Duncan in 1887.)

John Henry Knipp was a farmer, timerman, and was an accomplished carpenter and a craftsman. He purchased a wooded farm near Grahn, Ky and worked the timber to raise his family. He first built a cabin about forty feet long. Later he built a two story home.

They moved to Lawrence County, Ohio and spent the rest of his life there. John and Amanda dated nine years before they married.

Amanda would visit, sit up with, and cook for the sick. If there was a death in the neighborhood, she would do all she could do to help. She was a nice looking woman, standing about five feet tall, overweight and very old fashioned. She died of heart dropsy.

John Henry was a handsome man turning gray in his thirties. He also wore a little gray mustache. He died of a sudden heart attack. Both are buried in Lawrence County, Ohio.
